Map

A Rogaining map will be produced for the ERC. At the time of writing Bulletin II, we assume the scale of the map will 1:30 000 and contour intervals will be 5 meters. The map will be based on high quality digital cartography data from National Land Survey of Finland.

Terrain

The competition area is next to Finnish Rogaining Championship 2019 (<http://sm2019.turkurogaining.fi/>) terrain, with exceptionally interesting types of terrains from large marsh areas to some of the oldest forests in southern Finland. The terrain is characterized by two specific areas: the Kurjenrahka National Park and the military administrated Raasinkorpi forests. The remaining areas are typical Finnish forests used as a source of timber for the forest industry.

In general, 2/3 of the competition area (the northern part) is surprisingly sparsely inhabited, considering the fact that the area is in Southern Finland and very close to one of main cities in Finland (Turku). For example, the northern half of the terrain only includes houses and farms near the roads delimiting the competition area in West and in East. The contrast to the southern part of the terrain is clear: in the south, competitors will find more fields and permanent habitations. Nevertheless, the whole area in the south is mainly forests, and fields only cover some 15% of the terrain.

Even though the area is covered by roads serving the forest industry, there are also more remote areas where the closest roads are more than 1 kilometer away. The terrain includes all the possible terrain types one can find in Southern Finland: forests of different ages, open forests, logged areas, thickets, large open marshes, forest marshes, lakesides, and open rocky hills very typical of the Southwestern Finland.

Climate and typical weather

In September, the average maximum daytime temperature lies around 16.0°C. During daytime, the temperature can easily climb above 20 degrees, but days above 25 degrees are rare. During the night, it is possible to have temperatures close to zero. Precipitation is common in September – there are on average 9 rainy days in September.

Accommodation

We will provide hard floor sleepover possibilities with breakfast in Riihi. For those staying overnight (Friday/Saturday) in Riihi, there will also be bus transport to the Competition Center Raasi on Saturday morning.

The Competition Center Raasi will be open for campers (tents & camper vans) starting from Friday (8th) at 16.00. At the time of writing Bulletin II, we are not yet sure, if campers can stay in the Competition Center Raasi from Sunday to Monday.

If there is a high demand for hard floor accommodation for the night between Sunday (10th) and Monday (11th), we will look for different alternatives. Let us know in the registration form, if you are interested in a hard floor sleepover accommodation for the night after the race.

More information on different accommodation providers will be provided in subsequent bulletins and on our web site <https://www.tume.fi/erc2023/>. In January 2023, we will update our web site with information about other accommodation possibilities in Turku and Pöytyä. Turku has plenty of hotels and early September is past the high season for tourism in Finland. At the time of writing Bulletin II, we have no information concerning other large events in Turku during the ERC weekend.

Public transportation

It will be possible to travel to Riihi by public transportation from the city of Turku. Turku has an airport with some international connections; a harbor that has ferry connections from Stockholm in Sweden; railway stations with connections to Helsinki and Tampere; and a bus station with connections to the other main cities in Finland.

We will arrange bus transportation to the competition center on Saturday morning, September 9, 2023 from the following locations in Turku: Turku harbor, the main bus and railway stations, and the city center. This bus transportation will be provided when the train and ferry schedules for 2023 are available). Those arriving in Turku harbor on Saturday morning and staying overnight in hotels in Turku will be able to arrive to the competition center before the map handout (map handout is at 10.00 and the start at 13.00). Note that we will not arrange bus transportation from Naantali harbor (the ferry company requires that you have your own car onboard).

The cost of the different transport options will be provided in the registration system. The registration will open on the 1st of January 2023.

COVID 19

At the time of this writing, the Finnish authorities do not require any COVID-19 vaccination certificates from people travelling to Finland.
